MASSACHUSETTS REPUBLICANS.

ANOTHER REPUBLICAN STATE AGAINST GRANT

The Effort to Appoint Grant Delegates Defeated by Nearly Two to One.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

WORCESTER, Mass., April 16.—The republican state convention met to-day. U S Senator Dawes was chosen permanent chairman. After the usual committees were appointed, Senator Dawes made an effective speech. Three hundred and eighteen cities and towns were represented by 1115 delegates, 28 towns not represented. Col. W. B Hopkins said that he believed the great majority of the convention favored Edmunds. (Applause.) Delegates were put in nomination, consisting of George F Hoar, Julius H Seelye, Charles R Codman, John E Sanford, with alternates, and Parker Chandler said at the request of Sherman's friends he seconded these nominations, for whomsoever should be nominated at Chicago, the friends of both Edmunds and Sherman would support.

Gen. N. P Banks nominated the following delegates at large: Alex. H. Rice, Enoch R. Mudge, Chas. B. Stoll and L. L. Brown—a Grant ticket.

Boutwell seconded the nomination. He said that there are two gentlemen more prominently mentioned for the chief magistracy than any others. They are General Grant (applause) and Senator Blaine. (Subdued whistle.) Three-fourths of the delegates to assemble at Chicago Senator Hoar had said in letter will be in favor of General Grant or Sens or Blaine. The only thing remaining to Massachusetts is a choice between these two. (Cries of "doubted.") After a warm eulogy of Blaine Boutwell closed by expressing the belief that all our interests are bound up in the nomination of Gen Grant.

Rev Freeman Clark paid a tribute to President Hayes, which created much applause. He said that the moral influence of Massachusetts killed Senator Blaine. He had no doubt that Grant would receive the nomination from the south, but he doubted very much if they could elect him. New York must be carried and that would be impossible with Grant as the candidate. Grant went in with a tremendous majority on his first term and left with scarcely any following. He feared no revolution and but one abroad which purchased our bonds above par do not fear it. [Immense applause.]

Resolutions were offered pledging the support of Massachusetts to the nominee of the Chicago convention and denouncing the democratic doctrine that "to the victors belong the spoils," and promising him support to a civil service reform candidate, also demanding a candidate of stainless public record who will not put the party on the defensive.

A ballot for delegates was then taken and the result announced immediately after recess as follows: Whole number of votes 1110; necessary for a choice 556; George F Hoar 759; Chas R Codman 656; John E Sanford 672; Julius H Seelye 561. The remaining votes were distributed among ... candidates. The following were chosen ... Rich... James M Barker ...

There are more ministers drinking, more women drinking than ever before. Neal Dow will have to reply to that.

THE CONDEMNED CHINAMAN

Arguments in Application for Habeas Corpus for the Ah ... made in the U S Court Yesterday—Adjourned till Monday Morning

The ... argument ... application for writ of habeas corpus in the ... of Ah ... condemned to hang next Friday was made before Judge Deady in the district court yesterday afternoon. Hon Rufus Mallory and J W Whalley appeared for the Chinaman ... following ...

MR MALLORY'S ARGUMENT

The petition ... asks that a writ of habeas corpus issued and the petitioner be brought before this court. Our claim is that the prisoner is restrained of liberty by the judgment of a pretended circuit court sitting under an indictment found ... such a court but what we claim to ... court without any authority of law ... of law and in violation of the constitution of the United States. He then read sections of 752 and 753 of the revised statutes. The third clause ... the ground ... which we claim that this court has jurisdiction to issue this writ. The clause of the constitution of the United States claimed especially to have been violated ... 14 of the constitution which reads as follows:

> "All persons born or naturalized in the United States and subject to the jurisdiction thereof are citizens of the United States and of the state wherein they reside. No state shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any state deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law, nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws."

In order to understand the condition of the law at the time the act of October 17, 1878 was passed it will be necessary to examine the constitution and law of Oregon then in force. (Mr Mallory then read secs 1, 2, 4, 8 and 10 of article 7 of the constitution of Oregon.) The purpose of calling attention to these clauses is to show that the fundamental law of the land and no other has provided for the creation of courts. We claim that Ah Lee, the petitioner is now restrained of his liberty by due process of law. The speaker then cited numerous authorities which were read by Mr Whalley. The act of the legislative assembly passed October 17, 1878 entitled "an act to provide for the election of supreme and circuit judges in distinct classes," if it changed the law then in existence at all did not so change it as to in anyway affect the judges then in office or so as to authorize the election or appointment of other justices of the supreme court who should not perform circuit duty, nor did it authorize the election or appointment of judges of the circuit courts to serve between the said 17th day of October 1878 and the first day of July 1880. The act referred to is unconstitutional and void.

First—Because at the time of its passage the legislative assembly had no knowledge that the population of the state was 200,000 white people, which fact could only be ascertained by a census. The census last taken showing that there was not that number of white people in the state and there being no declaration by the legislature that there were 200,000 people in the state. [Constitution of Oregon, pp 88, Art 7, Sec 10.]

Second—If this act is not void for the reason just stated, but does sufficiently provide for the election of supreme and circuit judges, whose terms of office respectively commence on the first Monday in July 1880, the tenth section of said act is unconstitutional and void because

First—It provides for the appointment of judges of the supreme and circuit courts while the title to the act of which that section is a part declares that the act is to provide for the election of supreme and circuit judges in distinct classes.

Second—The governor has no authority under the constitution to appoint supreme judges except for the remainder of a vacant term, nor can the legislative assembly confer such power upon him. When the constitution provides for filling an office by election an act providing for filling it by appointment is void.

Third—The constitution provides for the election of supreme and circuit judges in distinct classes when the white population of the state shall be 200,000. It also provides the manner in which vacancies in the office of the supreme court may be filled, but no provision is made for filling a vacancy in the office of circuit judge. There is no such office known to the constitution as judge of the circuit court. No such officer has been heretofore elected and no provision is made for the election or appointment of one hereafter. The officer whose election is provided for by section 6 is one named in the constitution and his term of office by that section is to commence on the first Monday in July, 1880 and is to continue six years. He is a circuit judge. There is no term of office for either the supreme or circuit judge created either by law or the constitution which the governor was authorized to fill by appointment between the 20 days after October 17, 1878 and the first Monday in July, 1880, for there was not then and is not now any such office.

An office may exist without an officer to fill it, but there can be no officer unless there be an office. Therefore, there being no office in existence as that to which the governor is authorized by the 10th section of the act to appoint the said judges of the supreme court and circuit court the law directing the appointment as well as the appointment itself, is necessarily void. The law pretends to legislate out of office the justices of the supreme court heretofore duly elected by the people in pursuance of section 2 of article 7 of the constitution and to force these pretended judges upon them by a pretended appointment in plain violation of the constitution. These judges so called, can not be said to be de facto officers. To make one a de facto officer there must be an office for him to fill and if he be so in the office though not legally there he may be said to be an officer de facto. But if there be no office then there can be no officer, and if no officer there can be no official act.

To be an officer de facto one must come in under color of title and that color must emanate from a power authorized to confer it. In case of an elective office the color of title must be given by an election, and in case where appointment is the only mode in which an office can be filled by law color of office cannot be given by election so as to make one assuming to act an officer de facto.

This is a direct and not a collateral attack. The question presented does not affect the public or third person but the petitioner alone and the consequences of the decision in his favor would exhaust itself with his case.

While the constitution authorizes the governor to fill a vacancy in the office of justice of the supreme court by appointment no such power is conferred on him in the case of a circuit judge. I assert with the utmost confidence that there is no shadow ... for the appointment of a judge of the circuit ... Whatever this court may think ... the formation of the supreme court ... appointment of a judge ... without ... of law ...

LITERARY NOTES

Congress has authorized the compilation of a naval history of the war, as a companion work to that on the military operations now in course of preparation.

A statue is to be erected in the course of this year to George Sand. The site proposed is the Vallee Noire in Berry, the spot where so many of her romances had their birth.

The Nashville centennial commission offer a prize for the best centennial ode to be sung on that city's birthday, April 24th. One hundred lines are allowed to the poet in which to sing the praises of Nashville at a dollar a line.

An original autograph letter of King Charles I, hitherto unpublished and unknown to historians, appears in the March number of the Antiquary. The letter was written at Caversham to his younger son James duke of York, and is dated but a few months before the king's death.

The next volume of Dickens' letters will contain the correspondence between Mr Dickens and the late Lord Lytton on the subject of spiritualism. These two famous writers held opinions on that subject precisely opposite to each other and their letters are understood to convey the grounds for their antagonistic beliefs.

A gentleman living in Faribault, Minn., has a bibliographical curiosity in the shape of an original copy of the Sunday services of the Methodist church. It is dated 1786 and was printed under the personal direction of John Wesley. The services are those of the Church of England with certain objectionable words, phrases and forms expurgated.

WITH SUPPLEMENT.

SATURDAY MORNING APRIL 17 1880

PROPOSED CHANGES IN THE LAND LAWS.

Some days since we had occasion to refer in terms of disapproval to a scheme presented to congress by the commission appointed to codify the laws relating to the public lands. This scheme was offered in the form of a bill to abolish the contract system in execution of the public surveys, and to provide that the surveys shall hereafter be executed by salaried employes. But though there are strong, and as it appears to us convincing reasons against the adoption of this plan, yet certain other recommendations are made in the same bill which are not without value and which probably might even be adopted with benefit both to the people and the government. As the bills seems likely to become a subject of extended discussion we note some of them.

Classification of the public lands in five great divisions is proposed under this bill viz. Arable irrigable pasturage, mineral and timber lands. When our land system was adopted many years ago all the public lands or nearly all were supposed to be arable and our whole system of land surveys and allotments was based on this assumption. This continued until rapid development of mining interests forced into recognition a new class of lands known as mineral lands, requiring wholly different statutory treatment. And now as settlement has extended over the arid plains of the great west, experience has shown that still another class of lands must be considered with reference to their special condition and that land laws applicable to the continuous arable lands east of the meridian of the Missouri are not adapted to the topographical and climatic conditions existing in almost rainless regions. There are vast areas where agriculture, if ever successfully prosecuted must depend on artificial irrigation which in general can be supplied only by investment of aggregated capital. Hence the necessity of recognizing a class of irrigable lands, with special laws for their disposal. But the lands which can be irrigated in these arid regions are very limited in extent, and there are immense areas which cannot thus utilized for agricultural purposes, but which nevertheless bear nutritious grasses, and thus are valuable for pasturage. Great herds find abundant sustenance winter and summer on these rich grasses, but as much larger areas are required for these great cattle ranges than for cultivated farms, the necessity arises of recognizing pasturage lands as a distinct class, with special laws adapted to the pastoral economy. Then there are tracts mostly mountainous, or on mountain slopes covered with timber which possesses especial value from the general scarcity of timber throughout a vast region. Lands solely or chiefly valuable for minerals also form a class of their own.

The bill before us proposes legislation to deal with these different classes of lands in detail. The first important change proposed is the abolishment of the pre-emption laws and the system of sales for cash, leaving the public lands of the arable class to be acquired under the homestead and timber culture acts alone. For the homestead law a modification is proposed, to allow entry of homesteads by colonists of twenty or more persons, who may live at some convenient point, forming a village if they desire near the center of their colony, while cultivation of their several quarter sections is to be considered equivalent to continued and actual residence on the respective tracts. It is thought this plan may open a way to meet a long felt social and educational want, so prevalent in the formation of new settlements. Irrigable lands are to be acquired by filing a declaration that the applicant intends to reclaim a tract by irrigation, he must exhibit his plan, which shall be sufficient to irrigate the tract, he must expend at least two dollars an acre upon such irrigation, and then he can get his patent by paying one dollar an acre at the land office. Pasture lands are to be subject to private sale after January 1, 1881, at $1 25 per acre, after January 1, 1886, at $1 per acre and after the year 1890, the price shall be decreased 12½ cents an acre yearly until they shall reach 12½ cents per acre. They may be sold for that price but not for less. But pasturage lands may also be entered under the homestead act in a body of four sections or 2560 acres. Under the head of timber lands that is, lands chiefly valuable for their timber, it is provided that all timber exceeding eight inches in diameter may be sold in lots of not less than forty acres, nor greater than 640 acres. Three grades of timber are established with a fixed price for each, the grading to be done by the deputy surveyors. It is provided that the commissioner of the general land office may appoint agents for the preservation of timber on the public lands, and for the prevention and suppression of depredations thereon. The purchaser of timber is required to remove it within five years from the date of purchase or forfeit his claim and the purchase money also. In relation to mineral lands—and this is a branch of the subject which is of interest chiefly on the Pacific slope—the bill proposes to abolish the local rule which Gives the right to follow the lode or deposit in its dip wherever it may go, and to establish in its stead the rule that the surface tract carries the title to everything directly below it, and no more. This would hardly be received with favor on the Pacific slope, where custom has long since established another rule. It is true there could be no dispute about titles which rested on regular surface and vertical lines; but the discoverer of a lode will not think it just that he should relinquish his right to follow its course downward without reference to the inclination of its sides. There will be remonstrance against this provision, which probably will defeat it. But some of the other provisions of the bill seem good ones though the proposition to employ salaried surveyors and discontinue the contract system seems very ill-advised, and should by no means be adopted.

AN OUTSIDE QUESTION.

In the note written by the secretary of the board of trade two or three days ago and published by THE OREGONIAN, relative to the depth of water up the Columbia river bar there was a point which we omitted to notice. As our attention is recalled to it by a paragraph published by the Astorian we make an observation upon it which should have been made before. The secretary asked "Is it wise to say to shipowners that vessels drawing more than twenty feet can always be loaded at Portland?" This inquiry was put in reply to our remark upon the circular of the board of trade relative to depth of vessels crossing the bar. Observe however that the question was not at all in relation to depth of vessels loading at Portland. That is another question. The point under consideration was whether it was judicious or not to issue a circular which considering the time of its appearance seemed to support the erroneous notion that the bar is shoaling and becoming dangerous. That circular had no reference whatever to the depth of vessels loading at Portland or to vessels loading at Portland at all. All its suggestions related solely to the bar. Had it been the intention to give notice that at certain seasons vessels drawing over twenty feet when loaded could not depart from Portland, that might have been well enough, in order to give information that deep vessels may be obliged to take in part of their cargo below. Such has often been the case and will be again until the river shall have been permanently deepened. This however, is not so alarming a matter as a supposed shoaling bar and possible loss of vessels amid its huge breakers—dangers which an eagerness to get appropriations has apparently suggested. We should be extremely glad to see a scheme of improvement undertaken at the bar but the way it has been urged has overshot the mark. We do not however attribute any part of this mistake to our board of trade. The criticism in relation to its action we confine to the point already noted.

In one of the latest bulletins issued by the nihilist executive committee the czarewitch is thus pointedly addressed:

> We demand the abdication of the czar, a constitutional government, the immediate dismissal of thy father's creatures and hangmen from all the state, military and court employments, and the release of all who have been banished to Siberia for other than common crimes. Then thou and Russia will have peace.

This is certainly as terse a presentation of the nihilist demands as has ever been made. The uneducated classes of Russia are becoming intensely excited against the educated. As disturbances directed against the students and nihilists are apprehended Gen Melikoff the dictator is receiving many letters and delegations offering support in the noble work of destroying the nihilists. He is inclined to grant certain relaxations to non nihilists and has asked the deputations representing different classes of the population to support him in the difficult task of pacifying society. He likewise requested representatives of the press to defend the cause of order, saying at the same time "Gentlemen every liberty will be granted good subjects but bad ones are doomed." The principal trouble is that according to the standard of Muscovite despotism at least nine tenths of the inhabitants of Russia must be classed among the bad subjects.

English papers unite in paying tribute to Mr Gladstone's transcendent powers as an orator. The London Times, commenting on his election at Midlothian says "This liberal victory is a heavy blow to the territorial influence of the duke of Buccleuch, who at the same time has seen the candidate he favored beaten in Dumfriesshire which was believed to be much stronger than Edinburghshire, a citadel of ducal conservatism." The Telegraph remarks "Midlothian has not been wooed in vain. The fiery, exhaustless ardor of Mr Gladstone's eloquence has seduced, we had almost written ravished, the Scotch country. The great house of Buccleuch has been defeated upon the ground that was once thought unassailable."

Missouri, instructed for Grant will have more votes in the Chicago convention than Iowa instructed against him. Yet Missouri at lowest estimate will throw against any republican nominee 60,000 democratic majority while the 60 000 republican majority of Iowa, without which no republican can be elected, is to be overborne by democratic Missouri. So Michigan, opposed to Grant but republican by 40 000, is to be overborne by Kentucky instructed for Grant in convention, but throwing nearly 100,000 democratic majority. It is this which will make music in the Chicago convention, and something quite the reverse of good feeling after the convention is over, should Grant really be forced as the candidate.

The other day before Dan. Voorhees' exodus committee an amusing witness named Philip Brookings, a colored man who had joined the hegira from Mississippi to Kansas, testified. He said he had heard grand stories about Kansas, but when he got there he found nothing to do. His trouble, however, he frankly admitted, arose from the thing. Voorhees' partisan friends, learning of his dissatisfaction, had him summoned to testify at Washington, paying his expenses, of course out of the public funds. This contemptible farce of an exodus investigation the senate ought to be heartily ashamed of, and it would be were it not dominated by the lowest kind of partisan motives.

Massachusetts, in the old days the might of the republican party, is not for Grant. In her republican convention the persons proposed as Grant delegates were beaten nearly two to one. But the voice of the old republican commonwealth is stifled by Kentucky and Missouri, which will vote for Grant at Chicago and for the Cincinnati nominee in November. Should Grant be nominated it is altogether probable that Massachusetts would allow the democratic states to elect the president without serious protest, since it is extremely doubtful whether Grant could get the vote of Massachusetts.

In connection with the suggestion of Mr. Edmunds in relation to the presidency, the following curious story is told. Mr Edmunds, it is said, is inclined to write a public letter declining his refusal to accept the nomination. In conversation with senators on the subject he is reported to have exclaimed "I am opposed to it. I see not a single feature in the presidential office which would please me." Said Senator Hoar "Not even the power to veto bills?" At which home-thrust at his well known critical habit, Mr Edmunds had to join in the general burst of laughter.

From points gathered by our reporters in the Ah Lee case the indications are that Gov Thayer, following the precedent set by Judge Bradley in a certain important case will regard the proceedings before the United States court on application for habeas corpus, as ab inde, and therefore will refuse to allow any going behind the returns as made by the authorities of the state.

It was ex-Senator Wadleigh of New Hampshire that engineered the extension of an Voelter patent wood pulp monopoly through congress on the night of March 3 1877, as the body was on the eve of adjournment. He accomplished this by concealing the nature of the bill from the members.

A bill has been discussed in the legislature of California proposing to confer on the governor the power to appoint the board of managers of the state agricultural society. We have not heard whether it became a law or not.

The Daily Oregonian.

CITY.

CHARGED WITH RECEIVING A BRIBE.—David McCarty and Fred Hobnock two young men from Napa Cala who arrived in the city on the last trip of the Elder were arrested on a warrant from Bennett James, sheriff of Napa county charged with offering to receive and receiving a bribe to absent themselves as witnesses at a murder trial. The arrests were made by Detective Hudson and special officer Joseph Day. Application was made in the state circuit court by Messrs [illegible] and [illegible] attorneys for the young men for writs of habeas corpus and the same were granted. A hearing will be had to-day at 1 A. M. McCarty and Hobnock are [illegible] and it is said, saw from a roof on which they were working in Napa three men attack and beat him to death. A requisition from the governor of California in their case is expected on the incoming steamer.

EXECUTIVE CLEMENCY.—Gov Thayer has recently granted the following commutations to convicts in the state penitentiary. April 8, John O Brien sentenced Aug 30 18 from Clatsop county for the term of three years for aiding prisoners to escape. Cause uniform good conduct and sentence having nearly expired. April 14 Harvey Wilson sentenced from Polk county May 22 1879 for one year for the crime of larceny. Reason assigned on account of extra work in the boiler house on nights and Sundays. April 15 James Wilson, sentenced from Marion county for the term of three years from October 10 187 for the crime of larceny. Reason assigned on account of extra work on Sundays and extra work in the blacksmith shop.

SLOW TIME FROM WALLA WALLA.—A letter mailed at Walla Walla on the 10th of August, 1877, directed to a gentleman in this city arrived last night. The returned stamp of Portlands in half a dozen states appears on the back, showing that it has been on an extended tour, and has wandered many thousands of miles during the past thirty months. Just how far it has traveled no one can tell but there can be little doubt that it has had its three cents' worth of ride in Uncle Sam's mail bags.

LECTURE BY DR. E. I. BAILEY.—A supplementary lecture to the course recently delivered in the interest of social science at the Unitarian church will be delivered next Tuesday evening by Dr E I Bailey U S A medical director of the department of the Columbia. The subject chosen is "Drainage and Sewers."

NO DOUBT OF IT THIS TIME.—The Home Journal of New York has this announcement under "recent weddings": "Abbie Leland, third daughter of the late Maj. Leland of Gen. Grant's staff, to Joaquin Miller, the poet of the Sierras." Cards were not issued. Mr. and Mrs Miller intend visiting England in the spring.

TEMPERANCE MEETING.—The open temperance meeting at the hall of the Y M C A this evening promises to be of unusual interest and profit. Addresses will be made by Judge Stearns, C J Curtis and others. In addition there will be readings and vocal and instrumental music.

FASHIONABLE ART.

Lately, San Francisco following the east, has been running wild over new styles of art decoration and it is not to be wondered at that Portland should hold her own in the same line. Since the advent of the Japanese Repository, our ladies have had plenty of opportunity to practice their taste in adorning their homes with bric-a-brac and quaint China and bronze ornaments, cloisonne plaques that were before only within the grasp of the rich and wealthy can now be purchased by all. Fans, Japanese umbrellas and Oriental frescoes, silk embroideries and painted screen papers, so much now used, make a most pleasing change to the old fashioned and never changing chromo and white wall. But to see these in perfection one should take a look at the different designs on Marsh & Co's walls, whose store 167 Second street, will be illuminated this evening, and we anticipate a most pleasing effect.

THE D S & G R RAILWAY CO

Decree of the U. S. Circuit Court Granting Authority to Mr. Levett, the Receiver, to Lease the Road to the Oregon Railway Company, Limited

Pacific Rolling Mills [illegible] vs the Dayton, Sheridan and Grand Ronde Railway [illegible] [illegible] Oregon Railway Company [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] thereof [illegible] registry of [illegible]

[illegible] the receiver [illegible] to take [illegible] showing that he has [illegible]

It is further ordered that the receiver [illegible] shall at all times have free access to said road [illegible] and to travel over and upon the same free of charge for the purpose of inspecting the same and ascertaining whether the lessee is complying with the terms of the lease, and that the said lessee will pay into this court on or before the [illegible] day of every month to the salary of said receiver or his successor [illegible] $150 per month.

That the master of this court [illegible] to said Oregon Railway Company, limited, the [illegible] water [illegible] and bridge thereon [illegible] Railway Company [illegible] for the sum of $15 [illegible] in cash to be paid into the registry of the court and make execute and deliver to said company the proper writings on that account.

That the Oregon Railway Company limited pay the costs and expenses of the reference to the master heretofore made for the purpose of receiving bids for the lease of said road and of this order and all proceedings thereunder.

The proposition was made yesterday afternoon by Mr. E. G. Hughes, attorney for the Oregon Railway Company, Limited to pay the claim of the Pacific Rolling Mills Company amounting in the aggregate to $109 704. He stated to the court that he was ready to hand over that sum but was not willing to pay the attorney fees which would probably reach $1000. Mr. Gill's one of the attorneys in the case opposed the motion on the ground that the fees of the attorneys ought to be included in the amount paid in as they were properly part of the claim. However the matter was taken under advisement by Judge Sawyer and Judge Deady who will decide the case at 10 A. M. to-day. If they decide to accept the proposition of Mr. Hughes the money will be paid over the receiver Mr. George Levett will be discharged and the possession and ownership of the Dayton, Sheridan and G. R. R. R. passes into the hands of the O. R. Co Limited. The question of the costs and attorney fees will be hereafter adjudicated. The O R Co Limited have purchased nearly all the claims against the D. S. & G. R. R. R. Co and should the road pass into their possession will no doubt purchase the remaining outstanding claims.

NEWS NOTES FROM THE SOUND.

SEATTLE April 1 [illegible]

[illegible]

Several farmers in this vicinity are [illegible] their attention to [illegible] cranberries than which no [illegible] more profitable. The [illegible] of many portions of the [illegible] are peculiarly adapted to the cultivation of the cranberry and there is no reason why they should not be ultimately [illegible] an extensive scale. Mr. [illegible] has recently [illegible] which are said to be [illegible]

The [illegible] of logging operations [illegible] the latter part of last season and the [illegible] severe winter which prevented camps that might have [illegible] take advantage of an improved [illegible] the market from [illegible] has reduced the stock of surplus in the water [illegible] to a small [illegible]. There is consequently a prospect of a brisk season among loggers during the next six months. Although wages are much lower than formerly there will be a demand soon for all idle workmen at rates ranging from $30 to 40 per month. The present average price of logs is $4 per thousand for 24 s to 40 s and $4 50 for logs from 40 feet in length up. At these prices with wages ranging from $30 to $40 per month logging on Puget Sound if properly managed will pay well. Logs are seldom hauled half a mile to water. Trees 200 and 300 feet in hight are never out of view, eight and ten feet in diameter and 300 feet high are not uncommon, generally two thirds free of limbs. Fifty and sixty good timber trees grow on an acre as a rule and yield seldom less than 300 000 feet, and in some instances 1 000 000 feet to an acre.

By all means avoid any and all so called cough syrups for they are filling more graves with poor mortals who used these nostrums than all the wars ever done. PORTLAND

CITY HOMESTEAD.

THE LAND IN THIS ENTERPRISE LIES adjoining the city and is only from ten to fifteen minutes walk from the court house and a less distance than that from one of the best public schools in the city. It is divided into

One Thousand and Twenty-Four Lots,

Fifty by one hundred feet in size with streets sixty feet wide. Two hundred of these lots will be reserved for those who desire to improve and build this summer and fall. These lots will be sold on the same liberal terms that are offered in the Homestead proper.

Price.

All lots will be sold for $100 each payable in instalments of $5 per month or the small sum of 16⅔ cents per day. No interest will be charged and a good and sufficient Bond for Deed will be given upon the payment of the first installment of $5 and a Warranty Deed upon receipt of last instalment both without expense to purchaser.

Appreciation of Values.

By reference to The Oregonian of Feb 15th, it will be found that city property has advanced twenty five per cent during the past year. As there has been no excitement the rise is wholly attributable to the increasing immigration and the growing confidence inspired by our numerous railroad enterprises and the development of our many natural resources that have hitherto slumbered for lack of energetic men to develop them.

It is True,

That of all real estate investments the homestead plan is the best and safest, as all who invest are interested in making the whole property more valuable. To illustrate: Suppose A builds a house on his lot and B owns a lot adjoining. B gets the benefit of A's improvement while A is not injured thereby. This philosophy will apply to the entire property.

We have donated a lot to each of the principal churches for church purposes.

In addition to the above two lots are set apart for public school purposes.

Division.

The division of this property will take place when the lots are all sold or in any event not later than the 28th February, 1881,

at the Mechanics Pavilion commencing at 10 o clock A M. public notice of which will be given by publication in two principal journals in the State.

It will be made in the manner decided upon by a majority of the purchasers in the Homestead. Parties interested may appoint proxies to act for them if they desire to do so. Parties who do not attend at the time of the division either in person or by proxy will be bound by the plan settled upon by the majority of those who do so attend.

It is suggested by the purchasers that division might be made by placing the number of each lot and block in a wheel or box and the name of each party interested in the homestead in another—then a name will be drawn from one and a number from the other and the lot so drawn deeded to the person whose name is so drawn when all payments are made.

All but the first installment must be paid at the Banking house of Ladd & Tilton in the city of Portland.

Desiring a share may forward $5.00 to the General Manager and a bond will be immediately forwarded.

Money may be forwarded by registered letter money order or Wells Fargo & Co's Express at my risk.

TO THE FRONT.

Attention! Attention! Attention!

Is called to the fact that we have just received, per steamer State of California, a LARGE BANKRUPT STOCK, purchased in New York by MR. J. FRANKLIN at 50 cents on the dollar, and the way we intend to show you that what we say is so, and not merely bragging, is by giving you a Price List that will astonish you all, and if these figures are not the LOWEST in Oregon, we will stand aside and take a back seat. Competition is the life of trade, and there is so much competition in Portland that goods must be sold low to gain trade and owing to the facilities we have in having our own wholesale house in San Francisco at 18 and 20 Battery street, we will again state that our prices cannot be beat.

SAN FRANCISCO CHARTERS AND MARKETS.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 16.

The Commercial News in its weekly review of the freight market says: Since our last review there has been nothing done in this line worthy of mention. The declining wheat market in England counterbalanced the falling off in prices here. While shipowners have been averse to sacrificing their vessels on the eve of a harvest which promises to be one of the largest in the history of the state, the statistical position of the market favors those who are inclined to wait for the new crop. Tonnage in port under engagement for wheat consists of one vessel the Scottish Chieftain, of 1398 tons. Last year at this time there were 32,853 tons on the berth. There are only 19,818 tons in port disengaged, against 30,719 tons in 1879, and the amount on the way shows but 104,412 tons, against 119,668 tons at the same date for 1879. Owing to the fact that forty-four cargoes were shipped last year between April 15th and the 30th of June while this year very few will go forward, it is almost certain that the new season will commence with a good supply of vessels on the spot, but there must be considerable improvement in freights to attract tonnage to this port. The amount due after July is small and such improvement will of course benefit spot tonnage. At present the list on the way is increasing very slowly. Quotations for spot vessels cannot be given with any accuracy, but there seems to be little disposition to accept anything below £2 for orders, and some maintain that this figure to Liverpool direct is the bottom price at which vessels could be obtained.

Hops—35@40c.

Onions—Tendency still upwards. A consignment by this morning's steamer from Oregon sold in order at $2 50. The range for good to choice qualities is $2 37½@2 75.

Fruit—About 400 boxes Oregon apples arrived this morning. Following are the quotations for job lots: Apples, $1@2 for common, and $2 50@3 50 for good to choice.

Butter—Market shows little strength; dealers are packing in order to relieve the surplus. Bulk of sales yesterday and to-day were at 18@18½c for good to choice, though some lots sold above and below these figures. Inferior to ordinary 15@17c.

David Davis is a great reader, and as a circuit judge in his early days used to carry his saddle-bags full of historical and biographical works. His favorite novel is "David Copperfield," though he has a fondness for Thackeray and Walter Scott.

THE GENUINE

CELEBRATED

FOR THE CURE OF

Hepatitis, or Liver Complaint,

DYSPEPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER.

DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used, preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them a FAIR TRIAL.

For all bilious derangements, and as a simple purgative, they are unequaled.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

The genuine are never sugar coated.

Every box has a red wax seal on the lid, with the impression DR. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS.

The genuine McLANE'S LIVER PILLS bear the signatures of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS. on the wrappers.

Insist upon having the genuine DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation.

Fever and Ague.

The true antidote to the effects of miasma is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. This medicine is one of the most popular remedies of an age of successful proprietary specifics, and is in immense demand wherever on this Continent fever and ague exists. A wineglassful three times a day is the best possible preparative for encountering a malarious atmosphere, regulating the liver, and invigorating the stomach.

Cures all Scrofulous affections and disorders resulting from impurity of the blood. It is needless to specify all, as the sufferer can usually perceive their cause; but Salt Rheum, Pimples, Ulcers, Tumors, Goitre, Swellings, &c., are the most common, as well as many affections of the Heart, Head, Liver and Stomach.

Seminal Weakness,

Seminal Emissions, consequence of self abuse. This solitary vice is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing the following train of symptoms, unless combated by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, spots before the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, a dislike to form new acquaintances, disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. Persons may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing Dr. Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued. Medicines forwarded free from curiosity, with full directions, by enclosing Ten Dollars in registered letter, or through Wells, Fargo & Co., a package of medicine will be forwarded to any part of the World. Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, Box 1,957, San Francisco. Say you read this in THE OREGONIAN.

DR. SPINNEY,

No. 11 Kearny Street.

Treats all Chronic and Special Diseases

YOUNG MEN

WHO MAY BE SUFFERING FROM THE effects of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity. DR. SPINNEY will guarantee to forfeit $500 in every case of Seminal Weakness or private disease of any kind or character which he undertakes and fails to cure.

MIDDLE AGED MEN.

There are many at the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with too frequent evacuations of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and a weakening of the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. On examining the urinary deposits a ropy sediment will often be found, and sometimes small particles of albumen will appear, or the color will be of a thin milkish hue, again changing to a dark and torpid appearance. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

Office Hours—10 to 4 and 6 to 8. Sundays from 10 to 11 A. M. Consultation free. Thorough examination and advice, $5. Call or address

HISTORY OF A MACHINE ORGAN

A True Tale Told for the Benefit of All Who Try to Break Down Newspapers which Refuse Ring Dictation

[From [illegible] Tribune]

The final victory of Mr [illegible] over his former newspaper partners [illegible] by the entire [illegible] of a judgment in his favor for [illegible] transfer of the [illegible] stockholders of the [illegible] stockholder in the new paper enterprise a defendant, furnishes the occasion for a brief sermon on newspaper enterprises generally and "machine organs" especially

In 1864 the Chicago Tribune refused as it had always done previously and has never since to be a personal or [illegible] organ. It refused to acknowledge any allegiance to any person or clique, or faction. It refused to be the mere mouthpiece through which any man could trumpet his own praise. It refused to be the instrument on which any man, or ring, or confederacy or gang of jobbers could play and perform any tune which commended itself to their profit and the public's loss. It refused to be the conduit or the escape pipe through which any corrupt or scheming gangs could vent their destructive poisons and dishonest appeals. Hence in the winter of 1864-5 there was a gathering of the corruptionists of Illinois at Springfield and it was then and there decided to establish an organ in Chicago and destroy the Tribune. The handsome sum of $500 000 was subscribed and 20 per cent cash was paid down and in April, 1865 the paper was called into existence

In order to give the organ eclat it was decided to employ a first class editor one of national reputation. Numerous persons were canvassed, among others Theodore Tilton the result of which, however was the choice of Mr Charles A. Dana of New York, though possibly Theodore would have been a better man in his place. This gentleman was to be paid a salary of $7 500 (large for that time in Chicago) and was to be presented with $100 000 of the capital stock, subject only to 20 per cent installment of cash. Mr Dana promptly "paid" the cash installment by giving his note, secured by a deposit of the stock for that sum.

It is unnecessary to relate the subsequent proceedings in detail. Somehow or other the Tribune didn't fail in the least, it was not broken down. The rings and the cliques at the state capital waited anxiously and hopefully to be informed that the Tribune had suspended issue but the news hung fire somewhere on the road. The paper continued to be published, and people bought and read it, and its earnings seemed to be undiminished, notwithstanding the new "organ" was printed in Chicago. The organ itself did not progress though it had a legion of godfathers, including all the men whoever had or whoever expected to fatten on the spoils at Springfield. All the men who had tasted public plunder during the war in the shape of army contracts, cotton smuggling, and other spoils, and whose gains incited in them hopes of future distinction—all worked for the new paper, which was to command the northwest and dictate its patronage. The spring, the summer, and part of the winter passed away, and the $100,000 cash was nearly exhausted. Mr Dana was hampered by the multitudinous character of the spoils ring of proprietors and he was helpless, the machine men, who were disappointed because the Tribune had not been crushed out of existence laid the blame on Dana. They called him a failure. Orders were issued for the collection of another assessment upon the machine stockholders. Dana took that occasion to resign and escape. He sold his stock—subject to the lien—pocketed the cash shook the dust of Chicago from his boots and dissolved his partnership with Illinois rings and robber combinations. The organ was out of tune. Other stockholders soon followed his example. Eventually the control of the stock fell into the hands of a wealthy banker at Springfield who had made his fortune out of the war.

Then a number of young men who had been employed on the Tribune were seduced into putting their cash capital into the ring's "organ." It became a high protection and subsidy advocate. The manufacturers of the eastern states were appealed to and were bled freely and mercilessly, and many thousands of dollars were thus obtained and sunk. In the meantime the central capitalist at Springfield was subjected to regular demands for more money, and he had embarked so much that he could not afford to let the thing go down, though the Tribune was still living and flourishing, which made the machine fellows green with envy and red with choler, but the Tribune still lived, and actually declared and divided cash dividends from its earnings, while the organ made its owners bleed at every pore to keep the breath of life in its emaciated frame. Thus some years more were consumed, the organ repeatedly changing hands and forever sinking money. One of these rotation editors is now running the St. Louis "Third Term Boomer." We can't remember all the others. Several of them are still out of jail, and a number have gone where the woodbine twineth.

At last, the fire of 1871 consumed the material part of the establishment and some time later the entire property, charter, franchise, etc., etc., were sold for $10 000 with which the three managers went off and bought a paper in one of the rural towns

Up to the time of the fire it may be safely assumed that $500 000 of good money, taken from the stockholders and blackmailed from manufacturers and from cheap but aspiring politicians, were irretrievably sunk—forever and hopelessly lost. On the ruins of the organ of 1865 was erected another organ whose life has been shockingly checkered whose management has been varied with each change of the moon and which now enjoys the proud journalistic eminence of being an advocate of all subsidy schemes, swindling rings, and everything that "has money in it" and that politically it is the personal organ of a senator, bearing the same relation to the official that the tail of a dog does to the canine that wags it

During the fifteen years of diversified labor and expenditure to establish and maintain a personal ring and machine organ in Chicago, and to destroy, break down, and annihilate the Chicago Tribune, nearly $1 000 000 of money has been sunk and lost to stockholders, patrons and creditors, and the organ still languishes while the Tribune still lives and has flourished so bravely that, while the $1,000 000 has been lost to the corruptionists and monopolists, the Tribune has added to its property and made some dividends to its proprietors.

The days of mere "organs" have passed never to return. The world has moved away from that kind of narrow and disreputable journalism. An "organ" is of itself positive evidence of weakness and corruption on the part of its master and its degradation is fatal to the concern itself. An organ with one tune is necessarily monotonous and wearisome. The people want something better—something in keeping with the progress of the age, something free and independent which can call its soul its own. The world to them contains more than one man and has higher aims than the personal aggrandizement of one and generally an indifferent person. It wants a journal reflecting the great interests of [illegible] schemes of a [illegible] professional [illegible]

WARM SPRINGS INDIAN AGENCY

[illegible] or whether his skin is white or black or copper colored

In like manner a man will be judged by the use of his talents and powers and not by their number. The fact that Indians whose habits to generations have been to hunt and fish and dig camas and pick wild berries, living and roaming about and building their wigwams of poles and mats where nature supplied them with a bed with the least labor have now become farmers with fixed homes and board houses with doors and windows chimney and fireplace stoves tables chairs lounges and beds pantry and dishes flour and vegetables and meat books and papers clocks and mirrors lamps and brushes and that husband and wife and children are clad in the garb of a civilized people commands respect for them and for their instructors and for the present policy of the Indian department. The plan of Dr Whitman and Rev H H Spalding and Rev E Walker and Rev C Eells of the A B C F M in eastern Oregon from 1836 and 1838 and the earlier to keep their tribes from annual trips to the buffalo ranges for meat and the camas prairies for roots by furnishing them with hoes and plows and axes and teams and teaching them how to raise food at home was a credit to their wisdom and their piety

This missionary idea was the germ of the "Peace Policy." It means Indian homes on farms which they till and own. It means the school and the church. It means the six days of labor and the Sabbath of rest for them and for their households and their beasts of burden. It means the quiet domestic life in fixed dwellings which stimulates industry and insures a more intelligent responsibility and a nobler manhood and womanhood and childhood

PRODUCTS OF INDIAN FARMS ON THE WARM SPRING RESERVATION IN 1879

These consist of the cereals and vegetables and hay for the most part. Of wheat they raised 10 000 bushels of oats about 500 bushels of hay about 150 tons of potatoes about 3000 bushels, of turnips, several hundred bushels of pumpkins, by count several hundred

MODES OF FARMING

On a trip of four or five miles up and down the Tenino valley, on both sides of the brook I saw eight or nine small farms fenced and in process of cultivation. Some were ploughing others harrowing, another was rolling a field of oats just sown, broadcast, as whites do it. At a distance they seemed like white farmers. They had ploughs, harrows, wagons harness gear and tools, purchased of agricultural merchants

Their methods of using them were like our methods. The present superintendent of agriculture, James Luckey, Esq and his predecessors had taught them these methods. Formerly they sowed grain in spots, hills and patches. Now they clear the land of bushes and make way for the plow. Their fences are of pine rails of good size and length and well laid up zig zag. The bottom rail rests upon stones put in order along the line. Among the willows they make a kind of pole or wattle fence with stakes and thongs. They show the same kind of skill, economy and industry as other farmers. Their corrals for stock are strong. Their barns and sheds are low, but convenient for stowing hay and grain and of shelter for work horses and calves. They learn to feed work horses with hay and oats, and to take care of cows and sheep and fowls. In a word they find work enough about home and on their farms to keep them busy and they are glad to do it for the profit and comfort which it brings

TULLUX HOLLOQUILLA

This man's farm lies up the creek, about 3 miles from the agency. His house is built of sawed lumber with windows, doors, floors, apartments, sitting room bed room and kitchen, with stove table, chairs and stools crockery on shelf or in pantry, fire place lounge, bedstead and beds bedding and clothing like that of white people. His wife died last year leaving him three bright little children. His sisters, Mrs Orville Olney and Miss Nellie Holloquilla keep house. The children attend school about eight months in the year. He was in the corral, branding yearling ponies when we drove up. His manner has the marks of intelligence and self respect. His words are few and his replies are given with a trace of caution common to his people. While three of us—Messrs C H Walker, clerk and teacher and also acting agent in the absence of Capt John Smith, Hon I N Smith, who is abiding here for health, and myself called at the house, Tullux, as he is familiarly addressed continued his hard job of lassoing throwing and branding his wild colts. Mr Ramsby, the stage driver, helped him finish the task of branding about thirty and got very weary and worn by it, in addition to his all day and night ride from the Dalles

These incidents show the mutual respect and confidence that exist and increase between the resident whites and Indians on the reservations

The next farm above belongs to his father Holloquilla Senior a man about 65 or 67 years old whose rather grave dignified way appears in his son and daughters. A fence divides their farms. They have similar fields, houses, stables and barns, not large or costly, but convenient for present needs

Other farms taken along the brook as the farmers elsewhere have done, are like these two. Some have five or ten acres under fence and some perhaps thirty or forty. Farm wagons and ploughs unused, were under shelter

The bench lands and low buttes, and hill sides up to the rim rock on both sides of the valley, and all the level, grassy upper plains between the numerous valleys are stock ranges and timber regions whence logs are cut and drawn to the mill at the agency and sawed by Indians for their lumber and for sale

Their wheat is ground by an Indian miller at the agency flour mill which furnishes all the flour used by whites and Indians on the reservation

NUMBER OF INDIAN FARMERS

There are between eighty and ninety of these farms. The number of houses built of sawed lumber is eighty one and of logs only two. They gradually increase, by the marriage and settlement of young people, and by the change of others from the chase and from the camas prairies to the surer harvests of their own fields

LAND TENURE

The reservation is about thirty six miles square. Yet the east line meanders along the De Chutes river, the south line along the Metolius which rises on the northeast side of Mt Jefferson, the west line along the Cascade mountain summit and the north line meanders eastward along the Mutton mountain range to the De Chutes. This irregular [illegible] uncertain [illegible] unsurveyed [illegible] allotments have been [illegible] within the reservation [illegible] The Indian farmers [illegible] allotments. They [illegible] They are surprised [illegible] each need a deed [illegible] the white man [illegible] after considering [illegible] I spoke of their [illegible] suggested them [illegible] severalty [illegible] years. [illegible] that they can take [illegible] reservations under [illegible] Wm [illegible] went to Washington in 1871 [illegible] replied [illegible] that they kept faith with [illegible] good [illegible] admitted [illegible] related their [illegible] and wishes and wanted [illegible] their lands. [illegible] own the whole reservation now. Why then they ask for deeds. They recall the sale of other large sections which they had deeded to the whites and given up to them. Why take deeds of what they never [illegible] the reservation. My reply was that Tullux Holloquilla and his father and Wm Chinook and Ty Nuse and every other man who had land and no records on the books and no one could tell where their bounds were and that others could get their farms away unless held by regular and written titles. These ideas seemed new and strange and somewhat startling

AN OLD FRAUD COMMITTED AGAINST THEM

Wm Chinook said that Agent Huntington talked good and said he was their friend and made promises to deal honestly with them. He drew up a paper and asked them if they would like to have a pass from the agent every time they left the agency. He told them it would be a good thing to protect them. He got them to sign the paper by which, as they thought, they were to have passes. After he was gone they learned that the paper contained the sale of their fisheries at the Dalles for $10 000. They were thus cheated out of their rights to fish which was a large part of their living. They now have to pay a rent every year for fishing here to white men who claim the land and fishing ground. It makes them afraid to sign papers. It makes them want to know all about these deeds. This deed of the salmon fishery at the Dalles was new to me. I could make no reply. On inquiry, I learned that such a conveyance had been made years ago and that the $10 000 had not come to the Indians, but that they had the hardship to pay a yearly rental for the use of that fishing ground which was their heritage by birthright

After the council was over they waited in little groups around the agency for an hour. Some came to shake hands. The former hereditary chief of the Warm Springs, who had come fifteen miles to attend the council wished to know more about the deeds. He said the words were good, but he wanted to understand it better. I referred him to Mr Walker and to others who had it explained. Another cluster sent Charles Pitt, the excellent interpreter to know why the deeds would give them any better title than they now had? I went over to the group and explained the facts to him and to the young Pi Ute interpreter, who talks English well, and they told the others. As the Indian cook, Charley, came to call me to supper the little bands began to leave for their homes up the valleys and on the hills. Tullux Holloquilla, who had listened in silence with close attention and an occasional nod, collected his three little children and two sisters in his farm wagon, and drove off home like any regular farmer, leaving town. Holloquilla Senior, mounted his pony and rode away with his family. Wm. Chinook lingered a little longer. As night came all were gone to their homes

THEIR SCHOOL.

The records show over a hundred children of school age, among the four tribes, whose entire resident population is about 550. There were 16 deaths and 21 births last year, making about one per cent gain. Eighty-eight are enrolled in school. The last term roll gave an average attendance of 31. They learn to read and study in English, beginning in the primer and advancing like other children step by step, into higher grades. They study geography and arithmetic and learn to write and sing. They do chores at home and about the school room. The matron a very capable Indian woman prepares, them a plain noonday meal, which favor somewhat depends upon their prompt attendance and good conduct. The school term had closed, but the plans and reports commend the agent, Capt John Smith, and the teachers, C H Walker Esq and Miss Smith

THEIR RELIGIOUS SERVICES

All the men, women and children who could sing followed their leader Komar a sprightly young farmer, in singing several of Roupes version of the psalms

A short sermon from John 3 16 on the word "life," and what it does and is, was first interpreted into the Wasco language sentence by sentence, by Chas Pitt and next into the Warm Spring language by another earnest interpreter. This process sometimes passes through a third interpretation into the Pi Ute language, of whom about fifteen were present. It is slow, but seems to satisfy their craving for bible truth. They gave close and unwearied attention to every word, and joined heartily in the doxology and responsive "Amen." Capt Smith or Mr Walker leads their services every Sabbath and gives them a short practical sermon. Life and property are safe on the reservation. The doors are not locked day or night. Lost animals or goods are restored if in their bounds. Order prevails. Whisky is neither sold or allowed within their limits. Ten of their number are enrolled as a police force, with C H Walker, whom they respect, trust and esteem as their chief or captain. All dress in uniform on Sabbath or council, or gala days. They have little to do except to keep children quiet, and seat the congregation or show authority. But they will serve well for sheriffs or constables when state and U S courts are held among them

The evening closed with an hour of singing. The Gospel Songs, led by Mr Walker on the organ and joined by Mr Charles Pitt and his two daughters, whose voices are clear and strong. I asked him where or how he learned so many languages so well? He speaks four, the Wasco, Warm Spring, Pi Ute and English equally well. He said he was born on Pitt river. Was taken in war and made a slave among the Wascos, then among the Warm Springs and then was bought by a white man, and was kept in a white family for several years. Even now some of the older Indians call him a slave and dislike to have him as interpreter but his merits keep him in this service

It is plain that Capt J Smith whom the Indians trust and esteem and his employes have done well for these Indians and well for the government and they deserve the esteem and confidence which they have won

THE CHANGE OF INDIAN POLICY SUGGESTED BY THESE FACTS

Certainly a transfer to the military is not wanted. The gain thus far is in the line of personal rights personal manhood and womanhood. They have proved the fitness of Indians to support themselves in a civilized way. They can and will be industrious and economical, if intrusted with farms deeded in severalty if protected by law and made amenable to its obligations. The outlook for them is forward not backward. They are no longer to be called "Siwashes" and their wives to be called squaws and their children "papooses." That policy degrades them as it degrades those who use such terms. The manly and honorable policy is to treat them [illegible] and duties [illegible] establish the laws [illegible]

The Columbia River Bar.

[From the Corvallis Gazette.]

The recent flourish of trumpets by the Portland board of trade and certain newspapers about the shoaling of the Columbia river bar, put forth for the ostensible purpose of securing a large appropriation by congress has proved to be a very serious matter and is most effectually cutting off charters for large foreign vessels. The howlers have proved too much, and now the Portland papers are calling upon the board of trade to undo the mischief they have aided in doing. Through recent reports to this Portland board of trade shipowners in foreign ports look upon the Columbia bar with great suspicion and leading firms have expressed an unwillingness to send their large vessels hither

SAN FRANCISCO CHARTERS AND MARKETS.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 16.

The Commercial News in its weekly review of the freight market says: Since our last review there has been nothing done in this line worthy of mention. The declining wheat market in England counterbalanced the falling off in prices here. While shipowners have been averse to sacrificing their vessels on the eve of a harvest which promises to be one of the largest in the history of the state, the statistical position of the market favors those who are inclined to wait for the new crop. Tonnage in port under engagement for wheat consists of one vessel, the Scottish Chieftain, of 1398 tons. Last year at this time there were 22,[illegible] tons on the berth. There are only 19,818 tons in port disengaged, against 36,718 tons in 1879, and the amount on the way shows but 104,412 tons, against 119,063 tons at the same date for 1879. Owing to the fact that forty-four cargoes were shipped last year between April 15th and the 30th of June while this year very few will go forward, it is almost certain that the new season will commence with a good supply of vessels on the spot, but there must be considerable improvement in freights to attract tonnage to this port. The amount due after July is small and such improvement will of course benefit spot tonnage. At present the list on the way is increasing very slowly. Quotations for spot vessels cannot be given with any accuracy, but there seems to be little disposition to accept anything below £2 for orders, and some maintain that this figure to Liverpool direct is the bottom price at which vessels could be obtained.

SPRING CLEANING.

Tis morn!—On leaving home around I glance,
All there is luxury and elegance.
The dog and cat upon the hearthrug lie,
My sweet wife kisses me and says good by,
While servants bring my hat and coat and cane.

With so much comfort how could man complain?
'Tis noon!—As to my home I then draw near
I hear the sound of blows. The atmosphere
Is but a stifling blinding cloud of dust
That 'tis from carpets beaten, I must trust.

And, horror stricken, in the house I fly,
A scene of desolation greets the eye:
The carpets up, the curtains down, tables out,
Furniture all [illegible] and piled about.
While, back and forth, with head in towels bound,
With skirts looped up a foot above the ground,
And arms all bared, fly creatures—can it be
My lovely wife and servants that I see
Tearing about in those outrageous duds,
And stirring up this awful smell of suds.
While in their eyes there gleams a dangerous light?
Great heavens, 'tis they! Oh, what a dreadful sight!
The dog, once so sleek, from their keeps aloof,
The cat has sought for safety on the roof
And in the dining room, where I had thought
To find a toothsome dinner, they have got
A fiend of African blood, who joys to swing

A whitewash brush and spatter everything.
But I am not forgot. My feast is spread
Out in the woods [illegible] a barrel head.
One slice of bread, a plate of warmed-up beans,
Some water in a mug, a dish of greens.
Oh, banquet rich! And best of all, you see
I've brought a fellow home to dine with me.

THE STONE-CUTTER'S STORY

He was whistling over his work, careless, from long custom, of the solemn significance of the letters he was cutting in the white marble. The June's sun was nearly at the end of the day's journey, sinking slowly to rest upon the bosom of the broad Atlantic, whose waves washed the shores of the little seaport town of Monkton. A stranger, handsomely dressed in gray, with large lustrous brown eyes, came to the fence that was around the yard where the stone-cutter worked and read the lettering, almost completed upon the tombstone:

HIRAM GOLDBY,
Aged 38,
LOST AT SEA, JANUARY, 1866.

The last six was nearly completed. A strange pallor gathered for a moment upon the stranger's face, and then he drew a long, deep breath and said—

"Is not ten years a long time to be cutting letters on a tombstone, friend?"

"Eh, sir?"

The stone-cutter looked, shading his eyes with his brown hand, as he turned his face to the setting sun.

"This is 1876," was the grave reply, "and Hiram Goldby must have been ten years under the waves."

"Well, sir, that's the question—is he there?"

"Is he there? Your stone tells us he is, and has been for ten years."

"Yes, sir, it does—so it does. And yet she has ordered it. She came over a week or so back with a wearied look upon her sweet face, that I have never seen anything but patient in ten long years, and she said to me—'You may cut a stone, Davy,' she says, 'and put it up in the church-yard, and I don't want to see it. I'll pay you whatever you choose to ask, Davy,' she says; 'but he's not dead, and don't want a tombstone.' 'Lor, mum,' says I, he'd a-turned up all these years if he was not dead." But she shook her pretty head, the prettiest I ever seen, sir and she said: "My heart never told me he was dead, Davy, and I'll never believe it till my heart tells me so."

"His sweetheart?" questioned the stranger.

"His wife, sir,—his loving, faithful wife, that's had poverty, and loneliness and misery her full share and might have bettered herself."

"How was that?"

"Mr. Miles, sir, the richest ship owner hereabouts; he waited patiently for seven long years, trying to win her. Then he said she was free even if Hiram did come back."

"Enoch Arden," muttered the stranger.

"What did you say, sir?"

"Nothing, nothing. What answer did she make Mr. Miles?"

"If Hiram's dead, said she, "I'm his faithful widow while I live. If Hiram's living I'm his faithful wife." Maybe you are from the city, sir, and have not heard the story of our Pearl?"

"What story is that?"

"Well, sir, it's been told many times, more particularly in the last year, but you're welcome to what I know of it. There, that six is done, and I'll leave the scripture text till morning. If you'll come to the gateway and take a seat on some of the stones I'll tell you, that is, if you care to hear it."

"I do care," was the grave reply; I want very much to hear the story."

"Maybe you are some kin to the Pearl of Monkton—that's what they call Mrs. Goldby hereabouts. It's a matter of thirty-three years back, sir, that there was a wreck off Monkton rocks, that you can see from here, sir, now tide's low. Cruel rocks they are, and many a wreck they've seen, the more the pity. You see them, sir?"

"I see them."

"Well, sir, this one wreck, thirty-three years ago, there was nothing washed ashore but a bit of a girl-baby, three or four years old, with a skin like a lily leaf, and great black eyes. Hiram Goldby found her on the rocks. He was a boy of twelve years, strong and tall, and he carried the child in his arms to his mother. You may see the cottage, sir, the second white one on the side of the hill."

"I see it."

"Well, Hiram took the baby there, and Mrs. Golby was the same as a mother to her—a good woman, God bless her soul—the widow Goldby."

"Is she dead, then?"

"Aye, sir, six years agone. The baby I was telling you of sir, talked a foreign lingo, and was dressed in rich clothes that must have cost a power of money. But never would Hiram or the widow sell them putting them up carefully in case the child was ever looked for. She was that pretty sir, and that dainty, that everbody called her Pearl, but she was not like our girls, but afraid, always deadly afraid of the sea. I have seen her clench her mite of a hand and strike at it, for she had a bit of a temper in her, though nothing to harm.

"When Hiram made his first voyage for they were all seafaring men hereabouts, and there was nothing for a lad to do but ship, the Pearl was just a little wasted out lily, fretting until he came home again. And it was so whenever he went, for they were sweethearts from the first time he nestled her baby face on his breast, when he picked her up from the wreck. She was sixteen when they were married, as near as we could guess; Hiram was a man of twenty-four. She prayed him to stay at home then, and he staid a year, but he fretted for the sea, and he went again, thinking, I suppose that his wife would get used to it, as all wives hereabouts must do. But she never did—never. It was just pitiable to see her go about, white as a corpse, when Hiram went away, never looking at the sea without a shudder like a death chill. All through the war it was just awful, for Hiram enlisted on a man-o'-war, and Pearl was just a shadow when he came home the last time."

"After the war?"

"Yes, sir, but he made no money of any account, and so he went again, after staying at home a long spell. Well he never came back. 'Twasn't any manner of use a telling Pearl he was lost; she'd just shake her pretty head and say; "He'll come back." Not a mite of mourning would she wear, even after his own mother gave him up and put on black, for sir, it stands to reason he's dead years ago."

"It looks so."

"Of course it does; nobody else doubts it but Mrs. Goldby. Old Mrs. Goldby's last words were, "I'm going to meet Hiram," and they say the dying know. But even that didn't make Pearl think so. She wore mourning for her who had been the only mother she knowed of, but no weeds. Weeds was for widows, she said, and she wasn't a widow."

"But the stone?"

"Well, sir, I'm coming to that. A year ago, sir, a fine gentleman from France came here hunting for a child lost on this coast. He'd heard of Pearl by happenchances, if there is such, and came here. When he saw the clothes, he just fainted like a woman."

"She was related, then?"

The stranger's voice was husky, but the sea air was growing chill.

"Her father, sir."

"He took her away?"

"He tried to. He told her of a splendid home he had in New York, for he'd followed his wife and child, sir, to a city they had never reached. He was rich and lonely. He begged his child to stay but she would not. "Hiram will come here for me," she said, "and he will find me where he left me."

"On what has she lived?"

"Sewing, sir, mostly. The cottage was old Mrs. Goldby's, and bless you, Pearl did not eat much more than a bird, and her dress cost next to nothing.

But there's no denying she was very poor,—very, and yet the grand house and big fortune never tempted her. So her father came to and on to see her, until April. And he died sir, and left our Pearl all his fortune and the grand house in New York. But she'll not go, sir, she'll die here, waiting for Hiram, who'll never come."

The stranger lifted his face that had been half hidden in his hand and said—

"There was a shipwreck in the Pacific ocean, Davy, years and years ago, and one man only was saved—saved. Davy, by savages, who made him a slave, the worst of slaves. But one day this sailor saved the life of the chief's daughter, who was in the coils of a huge snake, and the chief released him. More than that, he gave him choice spices and woods, and sent him aboard the first passing ship. So the sailor landed in a great city, sold his presents and put the gold in safe keeping. Then he traveled till he reached the seaport town where he was born, and coming there at sunset heard the story of his life from the lips of a man cutting his tombstone."

Not a word spoke Davy. Standing erect, he seized an immense sledge hammer, and with powerful blows from the strong, uplifted arms, dashed the stone into fragments. Then panting with exhaustion, he held out his brawny hand to the stranger—a stranger no longer.

"I've done no better work in my life than I've done in the last five minutes, Hiram. Go home, man, and make Pearl's heart glad. She don't need it, Hiram—she don't need it. You asked me about the stone. The neighbors drove her to ordering it, twitting her that now she was rich, she grudged the stone to her husband's memory. So she told me to cut it, but says: 'Don't put dead upon it, Davy—put lost at sea; for Hiram's lost, but he'll be found and come back to me.' She never looked at it, Hiram, never. And there's not an hour nor hasn't been for ten years that she hasn't been looking for you to come back. Go to her, man, and the Lord's blessing be upon both of you."

So, grasping the hard, brown hand, Hiram Goldby took the path to the little white cottage in which he had been born forty-five years before. The sun had set and the darkness was gathering, but a little light streamed from the window of his cottage. He drew near softly, and standing on the seat of the porch, looked over the half curtain into the neat, but poor sitting room.

It was not the grand house, Pearl's heritage in New York, but Pearl herself was there. A slender woman, with a pale sweet face, and black hair smoothly banded and gathered into rich braids at the back of her shapely head. Her dress was a plain dark one, with white ruffles, cuffs and an apron. She had been sewing, but her work was put aside, and presently she came to the open window and drew aside the curtain. She did not see the tall figure draw closely against the wall in the narrow poarch; but her dark eyes looked mournfully toward the sea, glimmering in the half light.

"My darling!" she whispered, "are you dead, and has your spirit come to take mine where we shall part no more?"

Only the wash of the waves below answered her. Sighing softly, she said, "Is my darling coming? I feel him so near to me I could almost grasp him."

She stretched out her arms over the low window sill, and a low voice answered her: "Pearl! Pearl!"

The arms that so long grasped only empty air were filled then, as Hiram stood under the low window.

"Do not move, love," she whispered pressing her soft lips to his; "I always wake when you move."

"But now," he said, "you are already awake. See, Pearl, your trust was heaven given. It is myself, your fond, true husband, little one, who will never leave you again."

"It is true! You have come!" she cried at last, bursting into a torrent of happy tears. "I knew you were not dead. You could not be dead and my heart not tell me." It was long before they could think of anything but the happiness of reunion after the many years of separation, but at last, drawing Pearl closer, Hiram whispered: "I walked from J——, love, and am enormously hungry."

And Pearl's merry laugh chased the last shadows from her happy face, and she bustled about the room preparing supper.

"Supper for two?" she cried gleefully.

The grand house in New York is tenanted by its owners, and Hiram goes to sea no more; but in the summer time two happy people come for a quiet month to the little white cottage at Monkton, and have always to listen to Davy's tale of the evening when he was cutting Hiram Goldby's tombstone, and ended by smashing it into atoms.

"For," in the invariable ending of the tale, "Pearl was right, and we were wrong, all of us; for Hiram Goldby was lost at sea, sure enough, but he was not dead, and he came to her faithful love as she always said he would."

Productions of Ireland.

[Letter to San Francisco Chronicle.]

The produce of Ireland, even this year would support a population of 9,000,000 of people in plenty, while the actual population is only a little over 5,000,000. I have often heard Americans justly boast of the number of cattle they are sending over to England, but let me tell you that your exports of cattle to that country dwindle into insignificance when compared with what I might call the forced contributions from this island. The weekly export of live stock from this—what the English papers are pleased to call a famine-stricken country—will amount to 30,000 head, composed of oxen, sheep and pigs. As to the exports of grain and other produce I have no statistics by me, but I think I am safe in saying that for every shipload of provisions that will come here at least five will leave, and all going to pay absentee landlords. Of course it must be apparent to the simplest intellect that could we keep these vast amounts of cattle and grain at home, as we ought to do, and allow the people to live off the produce of their own raising, there would be no need of appealing to the outside world. But ability to do this involves the overthrow of the present landlord system.

Of the 577 British peers, 478 have seats in the house of lords, 434 by personal right and 41 by election, 16 by the peers of Scotland, and 28 by the peers of Ireland; while the 143 peerages of which the holders are not legislators at present are distributed among the peeresses and peers of Scotland and Ireland.

DON CAMERON TALKS

THE [illegible] FEATURES OF THE [illegible] NOMINATIONS [illegible]

[Dispatch to Cincinnati Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, March [illegible].—The various utterances of Mr. Cameron in regard to the different features of the contest over the republican nomination for president are both interesting and significant. As chairman of the national committee he has been exceedingly active since his return, [illegible] on an enormous correspondence connected with the chairmanship, and [illegible] many interviews of an important character with men of prominence from all sections of the country. In some of these he has made known his position and purposes more fully than has yet appeared in the public. Two months prior to the Harrisburg convention there was no doubt among the principal Grant managers, and none on the part of Mr. Cameron, that the Pennsylvania convention would declare almost unanimously for the nomination of Grant. The same was expected of the Utica convention, and it was then believed that Illinois would fix an early date for its convention and that it would follow with undivided support for Grant. At this time Senator Cameron was not even considering the contingency of failure to nominate Grant at Chicago. He expressed this confidence to all with whom he conversed, and insisted that neither he nor those working with him had considered the question of second choice. A few weeks previous to the Harrisburg convention, when some of the returns from the various counties began to indicate a strong anti-third-term sentiment coupled with considerable support of Mr. Blaine, he then admitted that the situation was such as to make it discreet to consider the contingency of Gen. Grant not being the republican candidate. At the time, however, in conversation upon this very point, he would go no further, in talking about a second choice, than to say that he liked Mr. Blaine personally, and he earnestly hoped that his indiscreet friends would not so antagonize the Cameron plans in Pennsylvania as to render it necessary in 1880, as it was in the convention of 1876, for him to throw his influence against Mr. Blaine in order to save his own prestige in Pennsylvania. Although there was considerable of this talk, it did not have the effect of keeping the hands of the Blaine supporters in Pennsylvania off of Mr. Cameron's plans. In fact, so effective was their work that, as Mr. Cameron himself expressed it, he would have been defeated in his attempt to have his convention instruct for Gen. Grant had it not been for the fact that a number of the delegates who were for Mr. Blaine for president were at the same time more loyal to the Camerons, and placed their control and prestige in state politics above their preferences for Blaine as president. Upon his return from Harrisburg, Mr. Cameron stated to friends that matters had assumed such a shape, with respect to the Grant movement in his state, that the Harrisburg convention would not have been asked to instruct for Grant, had it not been that the course of the Blaine men made it necessary for the Camerons to obtain this instruction to save their standing in their state and before the country. It was very evident from his talk that he keenly felt the narrowness of his escape at Harrisburg, and that he looked upon the position in which he was placed as one which compelled him to antagonize the Blaine interest. At this time he said distinctly that he did not regard the nomination of Mr. Blaine as expedient, even in the contingency of Gen. Grant not being a candidate. He has since said, in regard to the nomination of General Grant, that in case it should appear about the time of the convention, to those who are now managing his canvass, that he could not be nominated on the first ballot, his name would not be presented to the convention. Or, if it should appear to those same gentlemen at that time that there was danger of his defeat if nominated, they would not present his name. In such a contingency there is a well settled belief here at present that he would throw his own influence and that of his committee so far as he can control it against Mr. Blaine. There are many who have believed that he might exert it in favor of Secretary Sherman. Within a few days there have been excellent reasons for believing that Mr. Cameron and some of those prominently associated with him in the Grant movement are strongly disposed to unite upon Senator Edmunds. This is a suggestion which is extremely popular in the senate, and has warm support among many of the most prominent republicans in congress and in public position.

UNINCUBATED POULTRY.

Claims of the Blaine Managers as to their Favorite's Strength "on the Start" in the Chicago Convention.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—The secretary of the Blaine club gives the following opinion of Blaine's strength at the Chicago convention: He will go into the convention with over 300 delegates, we estimate 354. This will be within twenty-five votes of a nomination. Vermont, after a complimentary vote to Edmunds, will support Blaine, and after a complimentary vote Ohio will break and aid Blaine some, more than is needed. He will get a good part of Connecticut, and Iowa solid. The Grant men claim solid Texas, but won't have it. Blaine has eight from Rhode Island, half of Massachusetts, Maine and Michigan solid. He will get a good part of the Illinois delegation, and Indiana solid. From New York and Pennsylvania we have advices that neither delegation will be solid for Grant, especially Pennsylvania, where a quiet revolution is going on against the machine, and Blaine will have a showing in both delegations. Blaine will surprise everybody in the south. We estimate in the following manner for our candidate:

Alabama	8	New York	15
Arkansas	2	North Carolina
California	12	Ohio
Colorado	6	Oregon	6
Connecticut	6	Pennsylvania	26
Delaware	6	Rhode Island	8
Florida	4	South Carolina	7
Georgia	8	Tennessee	6
Illinois	21	Texas	8
Indiana	28	Vermont
Iowa	22	Virginia	8
Kansas	10	West Virginia	10
Kentucky	...	Wisconsin	20
Louisiana	...	Dakota	2
Maine	14	Idaho	2
Maryland	10	Arizona	2
Massachusetts	10	New Mexico	2
Michigan	22	Montana	2
Minnesota	10	Washington	2
Mississippi	7	Wyoming	2

Garcelon as a Surgeon.

[From the New York Tribune.]

It has been reported that after the battle of Antietam, Dr. Hammond of this city, who was then surgeon general of the army, was going over the battle field caring for the wounded, when he encountered Dr. Garcelon, recently governor of Maine. The operations of Garcelon upon the wounded were so brutal and so unlike those of a physician that Hammond was obliged to remonstrate with him and ask him to leave the battle field. Hammond, being interviewed by a reporter yesterday, declared the story to be entirely true, and characterized Garcelon as a butcher.

Lady Charlotte Bacon, widow of General Bacon, daughter of Edward Harley, fifth earl of Oxford, and one of the famous beauties of the early part of the century, has just died in London. She was the Lady Charlotte Harley to whom Byron refers in his poem to "Ianthe," which forms the prologue to "Childe Harold."

Ouida says in The Whitehall Review: "The English press, with a few estimable exceptions, loves platitudes and sophisms. I loathe them. So the English press and myself are eternally opposed, and shall so remain until the end of time."

"OMNES PROSINT"—HEALTH FOR ALL.

The Original Oregon Botanical Remedies.

Prepared Only by Wm. Pfunder, Operative Chemist.

No. 7138.
YOUNG, BUT THRIVING.

Why we, the people of the Pacific Coast should any longer be pestered with worthless nostrums made fifty years ago east of the Rocky Mountains, and that too, by persons who never even knew chemistry by its name proper, much less its wonderful workings. This question suggested itself years ago to Wm. Pfunder, the only operative chemist in Oregon. The result was that this gentleman applied himself to a great and tedious research of the different vegetations, growing in immense quantities, especially in Oregon, but shedding—until his discoveries—all their virtues from year to year to mother earth. His tedious researches, scientific applications, and proper combinations, culminated in the production known to-day as the OREGON BLOOD PURIFIER. Progressu, labore et scientia, extractum concentratum, nominis Pfunderii Oregoniense formatur.

Experience makes the master. Having had experience with very difficult medicines, chemicals, etc., for over 25 years, and having mastered them all through hard study, both here, and in the East and in Europe, we can confidently recommend our Botanical Remedies, because we have extracted, nay "wrenched" from the very heart-strings of hidden nature, all that is good and beneficial to suffering humanity, and leaving the Empty Shells and Worthless Leaves to imitators, green and inexperienced.

WM. PFUNDER'S OREGON BLOOD PURIFIER will positively be found a valuable remedy for chronic constipation, affected kidneys, dyspepsia, liver complaint, rheumatism, scrofula, and all other diseases having their origin in impure blood.

[illegible] of Mr. [illegible] R[illegible], Oregon, January 23, 1880. A few bottles of your indeed valuable medicine, called PFUNDER'S OREGON BLOOD PURIFIER have entirely cured my Rheumatism of 12 years standing, and other acquaintances speak very highly about it, performing a cure in every instance. [illegible] a blessing, should be made known to all sufferers, hence I make the above statement. H. SCHWARTZ

[illegible] Page, [illegible] contractor, 25 years a resident of Portland, says: For 12 years I suffered from liver complaint—tried everything. Cured with 6 bottles PFUNDER'S OREGON BLOOD PURIFIER.

[illegible] about it, tried it and am still using it when occasion requires. What! The OREGON BLOOD PURIFIER! Such are the words of one of our lady [illegible] ladies will understand what is meant.

[illegible] Use it; those pimples will leave your otherwise finely shaped forehead. Get a bottle of PFUNDER'S OREGON BLOOD PURIFIER, and regain that natural bloom on your sweet face, which no paint or powder can [illegible], too, young lady; you also try a bottle of this really invigorating remedy, and regain that natural bloom on your sweet face, which no paint or powder can impart.

The case of general debility removed in a short time, rapid gaining of flesh, improved complexion and good health. I sold my last bottle of Pfunder's Oregon Blood Purifier to Doctor Anger of this place, whose wife has been suffering from general debility for over one year, although the Doctor tried his best to [illegible]. After using your remedy the patient felt better, so much so that the doctor wants one dozen of this truly good medicine, which please send in my care at once. This is an extract received from Mr. Boos, Forest Grove, Oregon.

I, Frederick Ruegg, of Multnomah county, State of Oregon, certify herewith that Wm. Pfunder's Oregon Blood Purifier has entirely cured me of a skin disease, produced by poison oak. Although I had applied to several physicians for relief, none of these gents could do me any good, and I herewith recommend the Oregon Blood Purifier to all suffering with such skin diseases. Signed. F. RUEGG.

Sea Sickness—I used to dread it—a sea voyage; but now, since I take Pfunder's Oregon Blood Purifier I do not feel the least inconvenience. Use a dose or two before going on board and same after leaving vessel.

Look at him—that sallow sole leather face—that dull red rimmed eye—that slouching walk—yes, look at him well. He is a dyspeptic. Now look at this one: Elastic step, bright eye, healthy complexion—how is this? Well, he uses Pfunder's Oregon Blood Purifier and nothing else.

Mountain fever of years standing cured without the use of Quinine in a short time. Read and admire: I have been suffering from mountain fever for years. My physicians told me the only chance of my getting better would be a change of climate. Accidentally I came across a bottle of Pfunder's Oregon Blood Purifier, used it, and following directions by using a bottle of the S. S. S. Fever and Ague Mixture in addition, I am perfectly healthy now, and thus capsized the theory of my physicians. GEORGE GREEN, Mail Carrier, U. S.

Ladies in that delicate state—ever to be revered—but ever creating nausea, will find speedy relief by using Pfunder's Oregon Blood Purifier.

Pfunder's S. S. S. (safe, sure, speedy) Fever and Ague Mixture Certificate. I suffered some time with, what I was told, malarial fever, accompanied with pains in my head, back, in fact, felt pains all over. Not getting any better after using all kinds of medicines, I tried PFUNDER'S FEVER AND AGUE MIXTURE, and since gained rapidly in health. MARIE WEISER, Seventh and C streets, Portland.

The different Constitutions. The Constitution of the United States, that master piece of human brain. How is your constitution? If billious, use Pfunder's Oregon Blood Purifier, the triumph of modern science.

THE PEOPLE'S CHOICE—TONIC—Bitters, sugared sarsaparilla, watered bad whiskies and pills made B. C.—hard as rock, are the cause, the reason, that to-day our people suffer more from liver complaint, poor digestion, etc., than any other nation. The idea of giving our working population such trash, and magnifying that trash by calling it ferrated (or iron containing) medicine; here, where nature's products are abundant, and very nutritious. Eat our Columbia River salmon; that splendid beef derived from cattle feeding on bunch grass; those vegetables at once healthy and within the reach of everybody, and then laugh at those puerile efforts of ignorant, inconsequent parties trying to force iron into your system. All you want—you, who constitute the mass of the people is, to get your liver into working order, and there is no other or better remedy than PFUNDER'S OREGON BLOOD PURIFIER. Price, per bottle, one dollar. Five dollars for half a dozen.

Your Druggist has it or will get it for you. "The Original." Insist upon having it!
